

Installation and configuration AWR Cadence

March 6, 2024

The steps to install and configure AWR® are the following ones:

- Click on the following link: AWR university program
- Click on "Sign up" button.
- Click on "Login to try". In the order AWR product will be appeared to be added into the shopping cart.
- Click on "Create an academic account": use you academic account (i.e: 100xxxxxx@alumnos.uc3m.es).
- Check the email account. You will receive two emails: first one confirm the Microwave trial license. The second one some minutes later to send a link with the data used during the registration (a filled form).
- Install the suite.
- Once the installation has been finished, open AWR Design Environment 17. The application will return a license error.
- Click on in the "Configure" button.
- Select the option "Single User Licence".
- Log in with your credentials to access to the AWR server.
- As the license has been correctly configured, restart the software tool (AWR Design Environment 17).
- By default all the packages and libraries are loaded. Select "run with the selected features to avoid the current windows is opened again" or select "Prompt for features when the application is run" in case you want to enable/disable some features.
- Enjoy the software tool.